

DHL Consulting assisted a global luxury fashion holding company in revamping their multi-branded supply chain organization

A global company with fashion and luxury brands in over 100 countries experienced reduced service quality after acquiring new fashion labels. The internal logistics department faced challenges related to roles and responsibilities, end-to-end service visibility, customer service, operational efficiency, flexibility, resilience, and process clarity.

THE BENEFITS DELIVERED FOR THE BRAND

 Enhanced process efficiency through standardization and optimization across brands

 Improved transparency with meaningful KPIs and aligned SLAs

 More efficient collaboration through clear responsibilities and span of controls

HOW DHL CONSULTING MADE IT HAPPEN

- Set up internal 4PL (Fourth Party Logistics Provider) structure that would coordinate and manage multi-branded supply chains and defined its target operating model (incl. to-be processes, SLAs, KPIs in alignment with all involved stakeholders)
- Developed 4PL governance model for all regions, including organizational design, meeting cadence pyramid, KPI framework, and communication & escalation path
- Created implementation plan with change management best practices to support the landing of the 4PL model

Scope of the solution

 3 Regions

 120+ processes defined

 110+ SLAs defined

 70+ KPIs defined

Do you have business with disjointed supply chains due to multiple-brands or recent M&A?

Reach out to us at: <https://dhl-consulting.com/strategic-logistics-consulting/>

